Grover Cleveland is not the man's , nor is his name Benjamiu Harison. The man who occupies hundreds ands of adult minds and spurs all small boys to noble endeavor is Mr. John L. Sullivan. It is not any desire to add to man's fondness for fighting that has induced THE SUNDAY WORLD to prepare for to-morrow such an account of Mr. Sullivan as shall make every man who studies it feel that he has seen the Septer under a microscope. FREDERIC REMINSTON.

Mr. Remington is an artist whose wor every one knows. He is the only man per haps who makes every creature that he draws look as though he were alive and doing his best. His paintings of thin-legged but victous Indians; of top-heavy s, and of bad, tall cowboys are so true that they make the impending disappearance of those specimens from the earth's surface a matter of slight importance. Mr. Remington is fond of fine and mals and men. With Arthur Brisbate he spent two days studying the physical s-up of Mr. Sullivan, the one man who could knock down a cowboy and his pony, throw an Indian about as far as the an could throw a tomahawk, or give a bison a severe headache with one little punch. Mr. Remington has sketched what he saw, and the pictures, a fine lot of them, will be published in THE SUNDAY WonLD to-morrow. They give a far better idea of the wonderful fighter than anything that has ever been said or written about him, and every man with active ed will delight in studying these artistic impressions of the man whose great-

If Mr. Richard Watson Gilder is writing postry to-day, happy in the consciousness that he belongs to the conquering race, it is because in the beginning that race consisted largely of Sullivans. Therefore pride in John L. Sullivan. These things are explained fully by Arthur Brisban with Mr. Remington. Mr. Brisbane is peculiarly fitted to explain to markind what a great man John L. Sullivan is. It was his proud privilege to babois. in the article which he has prepared lege to behold Mr. Sullivan as he conversed in friendly tones with the Prince of Wales; to study his proud bearing as be first came in sight of the shores of Ireland; to sympathize with his struggies with the French language while training in France; to witness often that ion which Mr. Sullivan goodnaturedly describes as "knocking a man a mile," Mr. Brisbane, with a fidelity that must unquestionably trouble Boswell in his grave, lays bare to the public the soul, the mind and especially the muscles of Mr. Sulitvan. This story by Remington and Brisbane will probably atisfy the most ardent seeker for knowldee about the hardest hitter on carth.
